P R E F A C E .

THIS work is of very ancient origin, and one of the many stitches used in Point Lace, in which indeed every variety of stitch that can be formed by a sewing needle is to be found: it was also worked with a shuttle and pin, forming coarse trimmings, &c., consisting of small pieces worked separately, afterwards tacked on a paper pattern and sewn together with a very fine needle and thread, a process extremely tedious and trying to the eyesight. In this state it has recently been revived in France under the title of "Frisolite."

I have been much solicited for some time past to introduce the work in England, but have delayed doing so until I could simplify the mode of working, and endeavour to render it suitable to the taste of the English lady: for I considered that the old system required more time in the completion than the most elaborate design in crochet. To obviate the difficulties above mentioned, I have substituted a "Netting Needle," for the "Shuttle," which has enabled me to attach and shape the patterns while working; and where the loops are too small to admit of the netting needle passing through, I have given directions for using a sewing needle instead.

It is necessary that the examples should be practised two or three times before commencing any of the patterns, the whole of the designs being arranged progressively, to facilitate the acquirement of the work.

INSTRUCTIONS IN TATTING.

TO FORM A SINGLE STITCH.

Fig. 2.

Raise the 2nd finger of the left hand, so as to loosen the loop; pass the needle through the back part of the loop, bringing it in front between the two threads, as Fig 2; and holding the foundation thread quite tight, raise the right hand above the left: the foundation thread will now divide the loop into two parts, and still holding the foundation thread quite tight, remove the 2nd finger from the upper part of the loop, and placing it in the lower part, raise it up so as to draw the upper part of the loop tight, which places it between the finger and thumb, and finishes the stitch. The stitches being formed by the loop round the fingers, the foundation thread should be capable of contracting or expanding the loop.

G. BRUCE DE LA BRANCHARDIERE, 1854

EXAMPLE.—EDGING: First Oval—Commence a loop, and work 20 single stitches as directed above, withdraw the fingers from the loop, and draw the foundation thread tight. Commence the next oval close to the one already worked. Repeat.

INSTRUCTIONS IN TATTING.

DOUBLE STITCH.

FIG. 5.

This stitch is composed of a single and a reverse stitch alternately. Commence a loop, work 1 single stitch; and to form the reverse stitch, raise the 2nd finger, pass the foundation thread under it towards the back of the left hand, lowering the right hand; bring the needle in front, and pass it through the loop between the two threads that are nearest the right hand. Place the 2nd finger in the lower part of the loop, and draw it tight as in single stitch. Repeat.

PEARL; OR PIN TATTING.

Fig. 4.

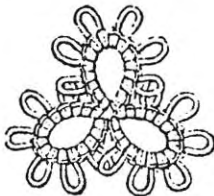

G. PIERCE DE LA BEAUMARCHAISÉ, 1848.

This stitch is the same as the Pearl Edging in Point Lace, and the loops are formed over a mesh. Commence by working a single stitch; take the mesh, and holding it between the finger and thumb of the left hand, with the right hand turn the back part of the loop over it. Then work a reverse stitch, which forms a double stitch; the pearl loop coming between the two stitches as

EXAMPLE IN PEARL TATTING—TREFOILS.

Commence a loop, and for the 1st oval, work 3 double stitches; then 1 pearl and 1 double 5 times ; 2 double, draw the loop quite close. Work two more ovals the same, then knot the end left at the commencement and the one from the needle together. Fasten off.

TO JOIN THE WORK.

There are two methods used in the following directions:—1st, When it is required to attach two parts together while working a Rosette, Cellot, &c., the joining is formed simply by passing the needle through a pearl loop of the piece directed to be joined, bringing it down to the finger and thumb of the left hand, and continue the work ; care being taken that the joining does not prevent the foundation thread from drawing.

2nd. This joining is used after a Rosette, Cellot, &c. is finished, and formed by passing the needle through a pearl loop of the piece to be joined, and working an overcast stitch on the thread close to the work.

RULES.

Always make the joining stitches close to the work, unless the direction specifies to the contrary.

Observe the same when commencing a loop.

The netting needles should be about 6 or 7 inches in length, and filled with 4 to 5 yards of thread, unless the quantity is given in the direction.

Join the thread with a weaver's knot before commencing a loop.

The overcast stitches in these directions are worked in the ordinary manner: the needle forms the stitch, and the thread or material upon which it is worked the foundation: in the Tatting it is the reverse.

EDGING.
